

Women in Communications

PROFESSIONAL WOMEN
CONFERENCE SERIES

Published on Women in Communications | Professional Women Conference Series
(<http://communications.professionalwomenseries.com>)

Home > Going Digital

---

Going Digital

Getting the most out of your online event experience

Is this your first time attending a virtual event? Unsure what to expect? Read on for our top tips for getting the most from your Dods D&I online experience!

1. Clear the time in your diary, just as you would for a physical event. Consider switching off your emails to avoid distractions.
2. Choose an environment in your home that helps you to relax and focus.
3. In the days leading up to the event, take some time to write down the three goals you want to achieve from the day.
4. Explore the conference agenda <sup>[1]</sup> and choose the sessions you want to attend live. Don't forget, you'll be able to view the remaining sessions on-demand at a time that works for you (a real perk of attending our events in their online format!)
5. Take the allocated break times in the agenda to relax during a busy day of learning. We will be providing some relaxation and exercise resources to help you switch off and recharge.
6. Meet your fellow attendees in advance of the conference and join the conversation by using the hashtag #WomenInComms. <sup>[2]</sup> You'll be able to take advantage of our online networking facilities to build relationships and create new ones on the day too.
7. Think about any questions you would like to ask of our speakers, there will be plenty of time for Q&A on the day!

---

Source URL: <http://communications.professionalwomenseries.com/going-digital>

Links

[1] <http://communications.professionalwomenseries.com/agenda>

[2] https://twitter.com/search?q=%23WomenInComms&src=typeahead\_click